TOP TIPS FOR GROWING IN PEAT FREE COMPOST

- Check your Water
Peat free compost often looks dry on top but can still be wet below.
- Feed the Seeds
They will need feeding with a dilute liquid feed after approx 3-4 weeks (once first true leaves have developed).

Our Coco Peat Free Seed Sowing Compost is easy to use and has a nice fine texture for seed sowing.

The Coco Block swells in minutes when 5 litres of lukewarm tap water is added.

Once swelled it holds moisture so if used straight away there is no need to rewet before sowing.

Germination and seedling development is equal to Peat.

Kings Peat Free Seed Sowing Compost contains Perlite to aid drainage and a small amount of feed to help seedling development.

Contains no animal products so also suitable for vegan gardeners.

Results of Kings Seed and Cutting Compost v Peat on Basil and Cabbage seedlings. Tests undertaken by Kings Seeds Horticultural Director Andrew Tokely.
